Does Crawling Matter? A Conversation for Parents and Educators
Stacy Benge, M.S.

What areas of child development does crawling affect?

How does crawling affect gross/ fine motor development and body awareness?

How does crawling affect brain development and bilateral coordination?

What are primitive reflexes and why is it important to understand them?

What are some reasons children might skip crawling? How might this hinder development?

How can crawling be encouraged?

Watch for my new book on the fundamentals of language and literacy published by Exchange Press.
www.childcareexchange.com

Contact Info:
Stacy Benge, M.S.

www.StacyBenge.com

Stacy.Benge@gmail.com

972-834-4204

Facebook
Instagram
Pinterest
Twitter
YouTube

Certificate of Completion

This certifies that

_____

has successfully completed to satisfaction

_____

Training date

Does Crawling Matter?
A Conversation for Parents and Educators

30 Minutes of Training
Time based on clock hours

Video instruction and training designed by:

Stacy Benge, M.S.

Early Childhood Speaker
Child Development and Early Learning Specialist

Please note. This is a video training featuring Stacy Benge. Participant is providing this certificate in good faith of completing all the required components. It is up to participant to add any additional information needed to meet standards of regulating agencies. Suggested reflection questions provided on following page. It is recommended to also attach a copy of handout notes. Responsibility of certificate validity relies on participant. Stacy Benge is not responsible for any fraudulent or misuse of this certificate.

---

www.StacyBenge.com

After this session, what professional practices will you:

Stop executing in your learning environment?

Start implementing in your learning environment?

Improve upon in your learning environment?

Please list your main takeaway from this session and how it will affect your professional practice.